HOW TO READ THIS CALENDAR

The Calendar has been prepared for North America Based on San Francisco (PST/PDT). Festivals and special puja days are based on this timing and may differ from the respective dates in India and elsewhere in the USA. In the Western calendar, the day begins past midnight, whereas in the Indian Panchang, the day begins atsunrise. The Nakshatra (star) and Thithi prevailing at sunrise for the day is given followed by the ending times. For this reason, the timings are given in a 30 hour format. The table at the end of this page helps in converting from 30hour format to standard AM/PM format.

Example for Thithi: If the Thithi is given as Dasami 07:16, Ekadasi 28:50, it means that Dasami ends at 07:16AM that day and Ekadasi begins immediately afterwards and ends at 28:50 i.e. next day morning at 04:50AM.

Example for Nakshatra: If the Nakshatra is given as Krittika 06:51, Rohini 29:39, it means that Krittika Nakshatra ends at 6:51 AM that day and Rohini Nakshatra begins immediately afterwards and ends at 29:39 i.e. next day morning at 5:39AM.

The dates for temple festivals, special pujas and events are set as per Dharma Pravrithi and are based on Thithi,Nakshatra, lunar or solar months. Dates for some functions are set based on the Thithi or Nakshatra at sunrise, while for certain other functions, the prevailing Nakshatra or Thithi at the time of the function is important. For certain other functions, the exact time at which the solar month (Rasi) changes is important. For birth and travel, the Thithi and Nakshatra at the exact time of birth / travel is important.

Amavasya: For observing Thithi and performingTharpana, use the day corresponding to the dark circle. Note that this day ● may be different from the day where Amavasya is indicated.

Poornima: The hollow circle indicates the night on which the full moon occurs. Note that this day ○ may be different from the day where Poornima is indicated.

PANCHANG & CALENDAR: TERMINOLOGY

A brief explanation is given below of some commonly used terms in the calendar i.e. Panchang, Solar and Lunar month, Nakshatras, and Thithi. The explanation is to help better understand the calendar and is not meant to be a complete description of the Panchang..

Panchang: Panchang means the Pancha Anga or five attributes to a day. These 5 attributes are Vara (Day), Thithi (Lunar Day), Nakshatra (Star), Yogam (Luni Solar day) and Karana (Semi Lunar day). The month is either the Lunar (Chandra Mana) or Solar (Soura Mana). Once the Panchang for a particular day is known, festivals and functions can be determined based on the conditions necessary for the particular event. Thus to determine a festival or event, we should know the Panchang for that day and conditions necessary for that function or event. The Panchang is also used to determine auspicious days and Muhurthas for performing various functions.

The Panchang is based on the positions for the Sun, Moon, and Earth in the backdrop of galaxies. It is also based on the rotation of the Earth around the sun and moon around the earth.

At the end of one year, the relative positions of the sun, earth, and the stars will be the same as the beginning of the year. Note that the location of the Sun and the Moon relative to the earth is the same irrespective of your location on the Earth.

Solar Month: The Solar Month begins when the Sun leaves one Rasi (Zodiac sign) and moves into the next. The exact beginning of the solar month depends just on the location of the Earth and the Sun in the backdrop of galaxies and not on the self-rotation of the earth i.e. day or night. The names of the Solar months follow the names of the 12 signs of the Zodiac- Mesha, Vrishaba, Mithuna, Karkataka, Simha, Kanya, Tula, Vrischika, Dhanur, Makara, Kumbha and Meena.

Lunar Month: This is normally the time that moon takes to revolve around the earth (or) the period between two successive new moons. More precisely this is the time it takes the moon to be at the same relative spot with respect to earth and sun. The names of the lunar months are Pushya, Magha, Phalguna, Vaishaka, Jyeshta, Aashada, Sravana, Bhadrapada, Aswayuja, Karthika and Margasira. Because of the difference in the number of days in a lunar and solar month, Adhika Masa or extra lunar month occurs about once in 3 years. The actual month is called Nija masa (actual) and the extra month is called Adhika masa.

Nakshatra (Star): The path of the moon around the earth is divided into 27 segments or Nakshatras (Na- synonym for Moon + Kshetra – Mansion = Nakshatra). The Nakshatra changes when the moon leaves one segment and enters the next. These 27 segments or stars are Aswini, Bharani, Krittika, Rohini, Mrugasira, Arudra, Punarvasu, Pushya, Ashlesha, Makha, Poorva Phaguni, Uttara Phalguni, Hasta, Chitra, Swati, Visaka, Anuradha, Jyeshta, Moola, Poorvashada, Uttarashada, Sravana, Dhanistha, Satabisha, Poorva Bhadra, Uttara Bhadra, and Revati.

Thithi (Lunar day): There are 14 Thithis between every New moon and Full moon and vice-versa. The names of the Thithis are: Amavasya (New Moon day), Prathama, Dwitiya, Tritiya, Chaturthi, Panchami, Shashti, Saptami, Ashtami, Navami, Dasami, Ekadasi, Dwadasi, Trayodasi, Chaturdasi, Poornima (New Moon Day). After Poornima, these Thithis repeat and end in the next Amavasya thus completing the cycles. Also, Thithi and Nakshatra being geocentric phenomena, end at the same time in all parts of the world. The day of observance of any Thithi in this calendar in based on traditional convention for respective Thithis. The prevailing Nakshatra of a day is the Nakshatra at the time of Sunrise, with at least 2 Gathikas/Nazhikas in that day.
